May 31-June 6

Top Stories

- Stetson's naming of Corey Williams as its new head coach for men's basketball was covered in many national and local news organizations including CBSSports.com, NBC Sports, Daytona Beach News-Journal, WFTV-TV, Tallahassee Democrat, FSUnews.com, WTXL-TV, WESH-TV, Bay News 9. Stetson's was the last head coach vacancy at the NCAA Division I level. The Daytona Beach News-Journal also ran a companion piece on what others are saying about Corey Williams, and an editorial on the new coach. Additional coverage: Gaston Gazette, Seminoles.com, Statesboro Herald, WCTV-TV, Central Florida News 13.
- Law Professor Ciara Torres-Spelliscy wrote the article, "Democracy's Masquerade Ball," for The Hill on June 4.
- John Jett, associate professor of biology at Stetson, has published a paper on the danger of mosquito borne illnesses to captive orcas. The paper was published in the Journal of Marine Animals and their ecology, according to a May 31 article in Phys.org. Jeffrey Ventra of Louisiana State University was co-author of the paper. Additional coverage: silobreaker.com, Interesting Tech. In addition, Jett is quoted in a June 4 story on WKMG-TV about the movie "Blackfish," a documentary focusing on the "devastating consequences" of keeping killer whales in captivity. Jett, a former SeaWorld trainer, is interviewed in and appears throughout the movie.
- Law Professor Charles Rose spoke with Fox News Radio for a June 4 story that ran in multiple national radio outlets about the Fort Hood shootings court martial. Professor Rose spoke with Bay News 9 for a June 4 interview about the high-profile George Zimmerman trial.
- Law Professor Peter Lake is quoted in the June 6 Chronicle of Higher Education story, "Breaking with Norms, New Chief Lawyer at Rutgers U. Enters Fray." The UWire story, "Going Home," also quotes Professor Lake.
- Law Adjunct Professor James Lake spoke with Tampa Bay's 10 for a June 4 interview about Jill Kelley's lawsuit against the Department of Defense.
- The Wall Street Journal, Tampa Bay Business Journal and Big News Network reported that Stetson is partnering on a legal workshop for veterans, active duty and reserve military and their families on June 12.

Other Stories in the News

- Melissa Gibbs, associate professor of biology and director of the aquatic and marine biology program at Stetson, was mention in a May 31 Hometown News article about the health of Blue Spring State Park. The park is suffering from an invasive species of catfish.
- The May 30 Ocala Star-Banner quotes Law adjunct professor Jeff Brown in the story, "Law enforcement increasingly turning to social media."
- Stetson golfer Sammi Smith earned a berth in this summer's U.S. Women's Amateur Public Links Championship, June 17-22 at Oklahoma University in Norman, according to a May 29 article in the Daytona Beach News-Journal.
- Nicole Woods, a coach for the women's basketball team at Stetson, will be joining the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, according to the Gaston Gazette on June 3.
- Local news stations Bay News 9, ABC Action News, Tampa Bay's 10 and Fox 13, WUSF and Tampa Bay Times all reported Stetson University College of Law cancelled classes on June 6.
- The June 5 ABA Journal mentions Stetson's 3 + 3 program in an article about Cooley Law School announcing its plan to create a quicker path to a JD.
Law student Josh Moses wrote the June 5 Gulfport Gabber article, "Gulfport Yacht Club Goes all in for WWII."

Stetson was mentioned in a June 3 Daytona Beach News-Journal article regarding changes to the plans for Spec Martin Stadium. The new changes should not affect the completion date.

The first lecture in Stetson’s June lecture series hosted by Lifelong Learning at the Center at Celebration was included in a Daytona Beach News-Journal article on June 2.

Stetson was mentioned in a May 31 article on Hotel Interactive about a new management company for the Clarion Hotel. Additional coverage: Hotel Executive, Meetings Focus.

On June 1, the Daytona Beach News-Journal posted an article on summer camps for kids and teens, including Stetson's lengthy list of camps.

Stetson was mentioned in a June 1 article on FlaglerLive.com as the college of choice for a top graduate from Matanzas High in Flagler County.

Stetson was mentioned in a Hometown News article on May 31 about educational programs sponsored by Food Brings Hope, which brought children to Stetson on a field trip.

Alumni in the News

- Bleacher Report published a retrospective of the 2010 New York Mets’ draft picks, including Jacob deGrom, who pitched one year for Stetson before being drafted.
- Allison Evans is the new president and CEO of The Methodist Home, a home for children in Georgia, according to a June 3 article in The Telegraph.
- The June 4 Tampa Bay Times mentions that Law alumnus Judge Frederic Rand Wallis has been appointed to the Fifth District Court of Appeal.
- The June 4 Naples News reports that Law alumnus Christopher D. Donovan, an attorney in the firm's Naples office, has recently been certified in Appellate Practice by the Florida Bar Board of Legal Specialization. The wire story also ran in CNBC, The Herald and iStockAnalyst.
- According to the Beach Beacon, Law alumnus Robert Metz has been recommended as the new city attorney for Indian Shores.

May 24-30

Top Stories

- The May 25 Ledger and News Chief quote Dean Emeritus and Professor of Law Bruce Jacob in the article, "Robocalls Ring Roadside Sign Violators."
- Research on ethics from Stetson University and the University of California, Riverside, continues to make news. Florida Higher Education Spectator picked up an article from a local CBS station on research showing that ethics professors were no more likely than other professors or scholars to respond to student email even though they believe it is morally right to do so. Additional coverage: TruthDive.com, Sifynews.com, NewstrackIndia.com.
- The new book, Ethics in the Practice of Elder Law, co-authored by Law professors Roberta Flowers and Rebecca Morgan, is mentioned in the May 28 Wills, Trusts & Estates Prof Blog.
Casey Alexander's departure from Stetson continues to make news. Alexander resigned as Stetson head basketball coach earlier this month, according to Nashville City Paper on May 23.

Stetson received significant coverage this week as host of the Atlantic-Sun Conference baseball tournament. Additional coverage: Daytona Beach News-Journal, Naples Daily News, The State, A-Sun.org and dozens of other local media outlets.

Other Stories in the News

- Yolany Gonell, assistant director of the Cross Cultural Center at Stetson was quoted in a May 29 article in Diverse Issues in Higher Education. The article addressed the importance of the National Conference on Race and Ethnicity in American Higher Education (NCORE).
- News of Law Professor Rebecca Morgan and husband Jay receiving the keys to the City of St. Petersburg for decades of service to the Sunshine Center has run in the May 26 Tampa Bay Times.
- Student Sammi Smith qualified for the Women's Amateur Public Links Tournament in Norman, Okla., in June. Smith is a native of Louisville, Ky., according to the Louisville Courier-Journal. Additional coverage: Daytona Beach News-Journal.
- Hometown News featured Stetson student Kevin Berstler in its May 24 edition. Berstler, part of the Bonner Leader Program, is heading to Colombia for a summer of service.
- An article in the May 29 Fort Myers Florida Weekly on the Edward and Gale McBride Foundation mentions that the foundation funds two scholarships for Stetson's Family Enterprise program.
- Stetson's women's soccer summer camps received coverage in the West Volusia Beacon on May 29.
- Operation Care 4 R Troops Facebook mentions Stetson's Veterans Law Institute legal workshop in St. Petersburg on June 12.
- Stetson University scholarships are mentioned in a wire release about the Florida Realtors Education Foundation Awards.
- The May 28 PRLog mentions Law student Dr. Julio Gonzalez, who is running for state representative.
- Stetson women's basketball team continues to receive coverage for its selection as one of 16 teams to compete in the 2013 Preseason Women's National Invitation Tournament, as evidenced by a May 29 article in the West Volusia Beacon.
- In a May 28 West Volusia Beacon letter to the editor praising the Mayor's Prayer Breakfast, Stetson was mentioned as a co-sponsor of that event.
- Stetson was mentioned in a WKMG-TV story about Lake Nona High School. The student band leader, Tracy Cleary, has earned a scholarship to Stetson.
- The May 29 Joseph Gamble Photography Blog includes a photo story about Stetson Law's graduation.

Alumni in the News

- Renee Lawless has landed a role on the new television series "The Haves and Have Nots," according to the May 28 Florida Times Union. The series airs on the Oprah Winfrey Network (Tuesday night, 9 p.m.). Lawless described the show, set in Savannah, Ga., as something akin to "'Downton Abbey' meets 'The Help.'" Lawless plays Katheryn Cryer, the matriarch of a dysfunctional, old-money family.
- Bill Newsome is interviewed on TestofFaith.com regarding his research in neurobiology and visual perception. Newsome was most recently in the news as one of two researchers chosen to lead an initiative to map the human brain.
• Alex Buelow is competing in the U.S. Women's Open (golf) qualifier at Bear Lakes in West Palm Beach, according to the May 28 Daytona Beach News-Journal.
• Kait Ballenger was interviewed (along with co-author Gena Showalter) about her latest book, After Dark, published by Harlequin. Additional coverage: DangerousRomance.com.
• Mike Riggs is a finalist for an award for his article, "Obama: Transparently Disappointing," in Reason magazine. The award, Best Magazine News/Investigative Article, will be presented by the Los Angeles Press Club at the Southern California Journalism Awards in June.
• The May 23 SaintPetersBlog features Law alumnus Chris Sprowls in the article, "Meet Chris Sprowls- one of the '30 under 30' rising stars in Florida politics."
• According to a news release from the Governor's Press Office on May 28, Law alumnus Judge Frederic Rand Wallis has been appointed to the Fifth District Court of Appeal.
• According to the Business Observer, Law alumna Suzanne Boy has received the highest rating from Martindale-Hubbell.
• Steve Coleman was the featured speaker at his high school's athletic banquet where he encouraged student athletes to take advantage of their opportunity to get a college education. Coleman played basketball for Stetson, according to the Newberry Observer.

May 17-23

Top Stories

• Bloomberg Businessweek included the Stetson Roland George Investments Program in its round up of schools in the RISE competition. Stetson took first place in the Fixed Income category. This is the 10 time in 13 years that Stetson won top honors in that competition.
• Law Professor Jason Bent and Visiting Law Professor Steven Kropp are both quoted in the May 22 CNBC story, "A Low-Wage US Contractor Just Cooked Your Burger."
• Lipscomb has hired Stetson head basketball coach Casey Alexander, according to CBSSports.com, NBCSports, The Tennessean on May 18. Additional coverage: Philly.com, Daytona Beach News-Journal, Vancouver Sun, WOAI-TV, WFTV-TV, WTSP-TV, KARE-TV, WJXX-TV and dozens of other media outlets.
• Law Professor Peter Lake is quoted in the May 16 Chronicle of Higher Education article, "Yale U. Is Fined $165,000 K Under Crime Reporting Law."
• Alan Green, who will be joining Stetson's economics faculty in the fall, wrote a column for the Tampa Bay Times, May 22, regarding Florida's choice to opt out of paying for expanded Medicaid as part of the federal Affordable Care Act.
• Science Daily reported May 22 on new research that shows professors who study moral philosophy and its application in the real world may not be ethical themselves when it comes to responding to students. The "Ethicists' and Nonethicists’ Responsiveness to Student E-mails: Relationships among Expressed Normative Attitude, Self-described Behavior, and Empirically Observed Behavior” study was conducted by philosophers Joshua Rust of Stetson University and Eric Schwitzgebel of UC Riverside. The study was published in the journal Metaphilosophy. Additional coverage: Newswise, CBSLosAngeles, Medicalxpress.com, Highland Community News, KCAL-TV.
• Stetson was featured in a May 16 story on WOFL-TV regarding pets in dorms. The story was prompted by a notice from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to its regional offices stating that housing providers, including universities, must offer people with disabilities a reasonable accommodation for emotional support animals.

Other Stories in the News
Law Professor Ciara Torres-Spelliscy wrote a book review for the May 21 Guernica on Citizens Disunited.
The Vera Bluemner Kouba Collection at Stetson was referenced in an article on NJSpotlight about the Patterson, NJ, IWW union strike of 1913. Bluemner's art is on display in the area as part of a series of historical and cultural exhibitions commemorating the strike.
According to the May 16 St. Petersblog and Sunshine News, Law student Dr. Julio Gonzalez is running against Representative Holder. Gonzalez is an orthopedic surgeon, a native Floridian, the son of exiles who fled Castro's regime, a veteran of the US Navy Reserve and former chief of staff at Venice Regional Medical Center.
The May 16 Tampa Tribune mentions development near the Tampa Law Center related to the Tampa River Walk.
Stetson's women's basketball team will participate in the 2013 Preseason Women's National Invitation Tournament in November along with 15 other institutions. Ten of the 16, including Stetson, are coming off NCAA appearances, according to KNDO-TV. Additional coverage: Gonzaga.com, KNDU-TV, KREM-TV, Daytona Beach News-Journal.
In a May 16 Daytona Beach News-Journal article about plans for a new hotel in DeLand, Stetson was mentioned because its purchase of University Inn will take 70 hotel rooms out of the market when those rooms are converted to student housing.
Stetson's Patrick Mazeika earned Atlantic-Sun Freshman of the Year honors after leading the Hatters' baseball offense with a conference-high .392 batting average, according to the Kentucky Enquirer. Additional coverage: Cincinnati Enquirer.
The West Volusia Beacon reported on May 20 that Stetson has named Rodney "RC" San Jose as executive director of Admission.
Commencement ceremonies were covered by the Daytona Times and Florida Higher Education Spectator on May 17.
Top awards were presented to Stetson students and faculty during convocation and commencement ceremonies, according to the Daytona Beach News-Journal on May 19.
In a run down of the top 10 students at one Cincinnati area high school, the Cincinnati Enquirer mentions Stetson as the school of choice for one graduate who was also accepted to five other universities. Additional coverage: Kentucky Enquirer, News-Leader, News-Herald.
Stetson was mentioned in the Cape Coral Daily Breeze when the local Kiwanis club presented scholarships to 10 students including one who plans to attend Stetson.
Stetson continues to receive coverage from a new luxury dorm at UCF that is being constructed with funds donated by the father of a former Stetson student. Coverage: Heritage Florida Jewish News, The Times of Israel.
Stetson hosted the Atlantic-Sun Conference baseball tournament at Melching Field, according to the Daytona Beach News-Journal on May 20.
Retired Stetson Coach Glenn Wilkes has authored an e-book, A Jack Russell Named Domino: Some Things Lost Are Gone Forever, about the lessons his dog taught him when Domino lost his leg to cancer, according to Hometown News.

Alumni in the News

Harper Bumpers celebrated 40 years as pastor of St. Augustine Road Baptist Church, according to the Florida Baptist Witness.
Dori Hanna, nurse-care manager at Osprey Lodge, an assisted living facility, is featured vocalist in a music video about Parkinson's disease. The video has been submitted to the Parkinson's World Congress for an award, according to the Orlando Sentinel.
News of Law alumna Pam Bondi, Florida's first female attorney general, speaking at Stetson's graduation, has run in the May 19 Tampa Bay Times.
The May 20 LawBizBlog mentions Stetson Law student Kimberly Clark, who died shortly before commencement, in the article, “Law means a better life, not death.” The May 20 Solo Practice University blog also mentions Clark's death. The May 16 Tribune Chronicle includes an obituary for Clark. The May 16 Sarasota Herald Tribune reported the death of Stetson Law student Kimberly Clark and ABC Action News also ran a tribute page for Clark.

According to the May 16 Bloomingdale-Riverview Patch Law alumnus Brent Rose will begin teaching as an adjunct at Coley Law School in Tampa.

Investors Hub reports that Law alumnus Harvey V. Cohen, a former state prosecutor for the 9th Judicial Circuit of Florida, is on the board of Punch Media Inc.

May 10-16

Top Stories

- Andy Dehnart, visiting assistant professor of journalism, appeared on the "Katie" show on NBC, on May 16. He was commenting on the ethical responsibilities of reality television. In addition, he contributed an article to katiecouric.com which links to the video of his TEDx Talk at Stetson.
- Law Professor Jason Bent spoke with the May 13 CNBC for the story, "Wal-Mart v. the Feds: Who's the Low-Wage Job King?" The story ran in national outlets including USA Today, Yahoo!Finance and NBC Sports.
- Law Professor Mark Bauer spoke with Food Nation Radio about the Limited Poultry and Egg Farm Operation Rule and the impact on small farms. The story ran May 11 and 12.
- When John Bledsoe threw out the first pitch at a Stetson baseball game last week, the video went viral showing up on TV stations and other media outlets throughout the country including: MSN.com, Mashable.com, WESH, WFLX, KGNS, KNSD, WISN, WDIV, Florida Higher Education Spectator.
- Wendy Libby was featured in a May 11 article in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

Other Stories in the News

- Stetson's commencement ceremony was featured in a May 11 article in the Daytona Beach News-Journal. Additional coverage: Florida Higher Education Spectator.
- Stetson was mentioned in an article in Emerald Coast Magazine in reference to a book by the late John E. Johns who was a professor at Stetson.
- A May 9 article in the Daytona Beach News-Journal mentioned Stetson in relation to changes being made to Earl Brown Park and Spec Martin Stadium.
- Stetson was mentioned in a May 10, Hometown News article about a high school student who is putting together a benefit concert for an arts program. The student, Ashley King, plans to attend Stetson.
- Law Professor Ciara Torres-Spelliscy's opinion article on the SEC has run in the May 12 Tampa Bay Times.
- Law Professor Peter Lake is quoted in the May 15 Richmond Times-Dispatch article, "Steger stepping down after 14 years as Tech's president."
- The Daytona Beach News-Journal published an article May 10 on Maura Martin, a 2013 graduate of Stetson, for her artwork.
- Stetson was mentioned in a blog post featuring an audio interview with John Jett, adjunct professor of environmental science. The audio is from an interview with WMFE radio.
- Stetson was mentioned in a May 14 article in Arizona Jewish Post about a luxury dorm being built on UCF's campus. Funding for the dorm came in part from a philanthropist whose son attended Stetson before his death. Additional coverage: Jewish Week Online, Jewish Telegraphic Agency.
Stetson was mentioned in a May 16 Daytona Beach News-Journal article about the 69th DeLand Kiwanis Junior Olympics. According to a Kiwanis member, the Junior Olympics was started by a Stetson student who needed a class project.

The May 16 Tampa Bay Times carried news of the death of Law student Kimberly Clark.

The May 16 JD Journal points to the 3+3 USF/Stetson program as a cost-saving strategy for students.

The May 10 Tampa Bay Business Journal featured a story about Stetson's February bar passage results.

The May 9 Gabber featured a story about Stetson's bicycle rally with Gulfport Mayor Sam Henderson.

The May 13 JITNews tweeted news of Stetson's LL.M. degrees. The May 10 TMCNet also shared the news, which ran over the wire in a previous story.

Alumni in the News

- Terry Rooney is now a pitching coach and recruiter for Notre Dame according to their website.
- James Whitmire is returning to Memphis to teach at Mid-America Seminary according to Florida Baptist Witness.

May 3-9

Top Stories

- Stetson's unprecedented growth in enrollment was the subject of a May 6 article in the Daytona Beach News-Journal. The article also mentions that Stetson is expecting to add students to a wait list, at the same time that other institutions are missing enrollment targets. Additional coverage: Florida Higher Education Spectator.
- Visiting Assistant Professor of Law Rachel VanLandingham did a live interview on May 6 about what happens when robots kill for the HuffPost Live at 4:30 p.m.
- News of Stetson's LL.M. programs has run in hundreds of national media outlets over the wire. The May 6 National Jurist is also running a story in their current issue.
- Professor Luz Nagle is quoted in the International Enforcement Law Reporter article, "Cattle Rustling and Ranching by Illegal Armed Groups and Organized Crime."
- Stetson was mentioned for its new women's lacrosse program in a May 6 article on ESPN.com. The article discusses the growth of lacrosse in Florida.
- Stetson was mentioned in a May 6 NBCsports.com article about an upcoming decision from the Atlantic Sun Conference on where to hold the conference basketball tournament's semi-finals. Additional coverage: The Telegraph.

Other Stories in the News

- Stetson was mentioned in a May 2 Daytona Beach News-Journal article regarding a downtown DeLand bar that is being transformed into a tapas restaurant.
- Stetson's head sand volleyball coach, Tim Loesch, was quoted in VolleyballMag.com in a May 8 article about building a regulation sand volleyball court.
- Stetson placed seventh in the Atlantic-Sun Conference Women's All-Sport championship, according to the Marco News on May 8. FGCU took the top spot. Additional coverage: Naples Daily News.
- Stetson student Katie Moore was one of only 60 undergraduates across the country selected to participate in "Posters on the Hill," designed to bring Congressional delegates up-to-speed on some of the most cutting-edge federally funded academic projects, according to NAC&U News & Notes. The same article mentions that Stetson student Jay DeDon has been chosen as 2013 Newman Civic Fellow Award recipient.

- In a May 9 article in the Courier-Post, FIT's head football coach compares his program and Stetson's, saying that both universities have been working on building a program over the last two years and this is the inaugural season for both new programs. FIT is a football-only member of the Gulf South Conference.
- A May 2 article on About.com said that Stetson University still had space available for incoming freshmen. An article linking to that story provided statistics about Stetson students and admission data.
- Law adjunct Judge Irene Sullivan conducted an interview with WMNF News for a May 7 story about the Kiera Wilmot case out of Bartow.
- A May 6 Tampa Bay Times and Miami Herald story about the homeless mentions Stetson's Tampa Law Center.
- Hometown News on May 3 provided coverage of a partnership between Stetson Health Communications students and the Volusia County Health Department in which the students developed videos and coloring books promoting the importance of public health. The projects were presented to the Volusia County Health Department for distribution at its centers.
- A Stetson student received a scholarship from the William S. Harvey Deltona Scholarship Advisory Board, according to the May 3, Hometown News. Awards are based on GPA, residency, and standardized test scores.
- Stetson was mentioned in a May 5 Daytona Beach News-Journal article on the award-winning ECHO (Environmental, Cultural, Historical, Outdoor) program designed to positively impact redevelopment and spur economic development. Stetson was mentioned in relation to the renovation of Spec Martin Stadium.
- A new store, Sportsanity, in downtown DeLand features Stetson Hatters sports wear according to a Daytona Beach News-Journal article on May 5. Additional coverage: Florida Higher Education Spectator.
- Political Science Professor T. Wayne Bailey was honored at the annual Silver Circle Recognition Dinner for his 50 years of service to Stetson University, according to the May 5 Daytona Beach News-Journal.

Alumni in the News

- Englander Fischer announced that Law alumnus and founding partner Leonard S. Englander received the St. Petersburg Bar Association Professionalism Award on May 3.
- Law alumnus Christian Barker is an artist manager who owns his own firm, Capri Nashville, according to a May 7 press release. The May 2012 graduate received the William F. Blews Pro Bono Service Award.
- LL.M. alumnus Alexandre Dammous is featured in a May 6 KPHO and wire story about MobAdWin.

April 26-May 2

Top Stories

- Stetson's Meghan Walter, assistant professor of counselor education, was quoted in a Parade magazine article on April 25 regarding the importance of family game night.
Institutional Investor magazine reported the results of its first All-America Student Analyst Competition in which Stetson students ranked in the overall results as well as several categories. Thirty-four universities and nearly 700 students participated in competition.

Adjunct Law Professor Richard Harrison is quoted in the April 24 Ledger article, "Closed Meetings Expected After Landings Suit Filed." The story also ran in the April 25 Chicago Tribune, Daily Press, South Bend Tribune and American News.

Stetson football was mentioned in an April 27 Daytona Beach News-Journal article regarding upgrades to Spec Martin Stadium including refurbished locker rooms, a training facility and a three-story press box. DeLand's city manager said the improvements will be completed in time for Stetson's first game. Additional coverage: Florida Higher Education Spectator.

Law Professor Peter Lake is quoted in the April 29 Chronicle of Higher Education article, "Federal Warning Against Retaliation Raises Questions for Colleges." A story in the April 29 FIRE quotes Law Professor Peter Lake's take on the "Dear Colleague" letter on Title IX retaliation.

Stetson's economic impact on the DeLand and Volusia County was included in the coverage of Wendy Libby's speech to the DeLand Area Chamber of Commerce in the Daytona Beach News-Journal on April 29. Jeff Altier's remarks were covered as well.

Other Stories in the News

- The April 29 RedOrbit picked up Law Professor Susan Rozelle's quote in CNN.com regarding videotaping crimes.
- Daytona Beach News-Journal reported on April 26, that an upcoming study by Stetson students that is expected to show that highway US 1 is a "problem child" for New Smyrna Beach and other cities in Volusia County.
- A partnership between Stetson students in a health-communications class and the Florida Health Department in Volusia County has resulted in two videos and two coloring books designed to teach healthful habits, according to the West Volusia Beacon on April 26.
- Ormond Beach businessman Chris Calabucci is hoping to capitalize on the return of Stetson's football program and the university's push to increase enrollment at its DeLand campus. He purchased the former Fogleman Studio building on N. Woodland Boulevard and opened a sports apparel shop, Sportsanity, in the 113-year-old structure, according to the Daytona Beach News-Journal on April 26.
- Law Professor Charles Rose spoke with the April 29 Tampa Bay Times for the story, "St. Petersburg killer pleads guilty to two murders."
- Stetson was mentioned in a reference to the movie, "The Water Boy" during the Good Day Orlando show on WOFL-TV. Additional coverage: WOGX-TV.
- Stetson was mentioned in a Daytona Beach News-Journal article on April 25, regarding DeLand's Green Affair. Stetson hosted its fifth annual Green Symposium to help educate residents about green living. Additional coverage: Florida Higher Education Spectator.
- Stetson senior and softballer Chelsea Whalley was quoted in a Hometown News article on April 26, regarding dog parks.
- Trent Austin, a senior soccer player, was quoted in Cooper City High School's The Lariat in a May 2 article telling students how to get recruited by colleges.
- An April 28 article in the Tampa Bay Times on USF's efforts to help students manage money and school loan debt listed several Florida universities - including Stetson -- and the average amount of debt students have at graduation.
Josae Martin, a senior in high school in St. Thomas, beat 52 other students to win a spot at the national Virgin Islands Poetry Out Loud contest. She plans to attend Stetson University in the fall, according to the Virgin Islands Daily News on May 1.

The April 26 Gulfport Gabber reports that Stetson Law faculty raised the most funds for the Relay for Life.

The May 1 ThingstoDoTampa reports that Stetson Law students will be holding a bicycle rally on May 3 on the Gulfport campus.

The April 27 Tampa Bay Times reports discussions in Tampa regarding panhandling in a park near Stetson's Tampa Campus.

Student Javier Centonzio reports on the Sgt. Jessie Davila Memorial Scholarship page that more than $5000 has been raised towards a Stetson Law scholarship.

Alumni in the News

Flutist Emilio Rutllant is performing in a benefit concert in Vero Beach to raise funds that will pay for a friend's medical bills, according to Hometown News. The friend is an architect and philanthropist in Vero Beach. Additional coverage: TCPalm.com.

Judge Beverly B. Martin of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 11th Circuit will serve as the keynote speaker at the University of Georgia School of Law's graduation. Martin earned her bachelor's degree at Stetson according to the May 2 UGA Today.

Law alumnus Joshua Ferraro is mentioned in the April 30 TCPalm story, “Ferraro returns to Lesser, Lesser, Landy & Smith.”