The Center for Excellence in Elder Law at Stetson University College of Law

Promotes “Go-Green” Conference Planning

The Center for Excellence in Elder Law – in partnership with The Don CeSar Beach Resort – is also promoting environmental responsibility. Through our joint “Go-Green” efforts, the Special Needs Trust X – The National Conference supports the College of Law’s efforts to reduce waste and advance sustainability in higher education.

Following are some of the ways SNT X will be a “Go-Green” conference:

- Flash drives will be provided rather than printed course materials
- Podcast of individual session will be offered post conference
- Recycled paper used for all printed materials, brochures and folders
- Double-sided printing for promotional materials and handouts
- Individual re-usable water bottles for all conference attendees to use during the conference
- Reusable tableware for meals
- Increased use of electronic promotions and advertising
- Reusable name badges
- Email attendee confirmations

Please visit Stetson University at http://www.stetson.edu/other/erc for other ways Stetson University has “Gone Green.”

Following are ways the Don CeSar Beach Resort has “Gone Green”:

- Green Certified
- Rooms have low-flow shower heads and sheet and towel reuse program
- Use of compact fluorescent light bulbs
- Whenever possible, organic and/or locally grown foods used
- Leftover food donated to a not-for-profit organization - America’s Second Harvest
- Recycling Program for glass, paper, plastic and aluminum
- Public Transportation easily accessible to the hotel
