Stetson University Taps Ray Nault as Interim Vice President for Enrollment Management

Nault fills spot while university conducts search for new VP

DELAND, Florida, March 25, 2020 -- Stetson University has selected Raymond Nault, MS Ed, to serve as Interim Vice President of Enrollment Management while the university conducts a search to replace Joel Bauman who announced his departure earlier today.

Bauman will complete the academic year at Stetson and begin his duties as Senior Vice President of Enrollment Management at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh on July 13.

Nault is returning to Stetson after serving this past fall as interim director of financial aid. Nault is president and CEO of College Aid Services in Miami, LLC in Miami, which focuses on providing customized solutions that improve the student experience at higher education institutions across the country.

“It’s a pleasure to assist Stetson University during this transitional time,” said Nault. “Stetson has an excellent reputation for rigorous academics, top-notch faculty, and student-centered administrators, all of which supports student success.”

“Ray is an experienced admission and financial aid executive who has worked in higher education for much of his career,” said President Wendy B. Libby, PhD, who is retiring June 30. “Many of us already know Ray...from his service as a consultant to Stetson, both in DeLand and Gulfport, on numerous occasions over the last 12 years.”

Nault will begin his position at Stetson on July 6.
