

STEVEN L. (STEVE) BURLEY

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT MANAGER
CITY OF DeLAND

Steve Burley has over 45 years of successful and varied experience in business management, workforce development and administration, human resources management and business development. Originally from Sebring, Florida, he is a graduate of Stetson University and has completed advanced work in human resource administration at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville. Before joining the City of DeLand in 2013, he served for over 10 years as Assistant to the President and Director of Economic Development at Daytona State College. Prior to his service at Daytona State College he served for four years as Vice President for Community Development for Enterprise Volusia., Inc., a private/public economic development organization. Prior to his service at EVI, he was Director of Human Resources at Stetson University for ten years and previous to that served as the West Volusia Representative and Center Manager for the Volusia, Lake and Flagler Private Industry Council, a tri-county comprehensive employment and training consortium.

Steve has held leadership positions in local, regional and state professional, human resource and historical preservation organizations, receiving service awards from a number of these groups. He is one of the original seven founders of the nationally recognized DeLand MainStreet Association and was named by Volusia County as a “Historian Emeritus” of Volusia County. He lives in DeLand and is married to another Stetson alumna, the former Kathy Geromanos of Bristol, Virginia.
