

18th International Wildlife Law Conference
Transboundary Dimensions of Wildlife Conservation
18-19 April 2018, Tilburg, the Netherlands

Organised by Tilburg University's Department of European and International Public Law, and Stetson University College of Law's Institute for Biodiversity Law, the 18th International Wildlife Law Conference will be held in Tilburg, the Netherlands, from 18-19 April 2018. The Conference aims to bring together a broad variety of professionals with an interest in wildlife conservation, including lawyers, policymakers and scientists; and student participation is strongly encouraged.

Thus, the Conference welcomes not only law professionals/students with an interest in wildlife, but also wildlife professionals/students with an interest in law. The two keynote speakers reflect this broad, multidisciplinary remit: Michael Bowman (Associate Professor at the University of Nottingham's School of Law) and David Macdonald (founder and Director of the Wildlife Conservation Research Unit at the University of Oxford).

The Conference will include presentations on a range of legal and policy frameworks for achieving transboundary conservation, including, inter alia, the various global and regional wildlife treaties and the European Union's Nature Directives.

On 20 April 2018, participants will have the option of joining a post-conference field trip, arranged in partnership with Staatsbosbeheer.
