Welcome!

We are thrilled to gather the entire Stetson University community for Values Day 2026, a day dedicated to reflection, dialogue, learning, and connection.

Established by President H. Douglas Lee, Values Day is one of Stetson's most meaningful traditions. Rooted in our commitment to intellectual exploration, personal growth, inclusive community, and personal and human dignity, it challenges us not only to name our values, but to consider how they shape the choices we make and the communities we build.

This year, as the United States marks the 250th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, our theme looks forward: "What Values Will Shape the Next 250 Years?" What have we learned from our history? Whose experiences and perspectives must be part of conversations about our shared future? How might education, leadership, service, creativity, and human connection shape the next chapter? And what responsibility does each of us have in creating the world future generations will inherit?

These questions do not have simple or shared answers, which is precisely why a university is the right place to ask them. Through presentations, workshops, performances, films, discussions, and community activities, Values Day brings students, faculty, staff, alumni, and community members together to explore the values that shaped our past and imagine those that might guide our future.

That makes this year's Values Day more than a commemoration. It is an invitation: to learn from history, to listen to perspectives different from our own, to ask difficult questions, and to imagine what is possible. Attend a session outside your usual interests. Join a conversation. Listen carefully. Challenge an assumption.

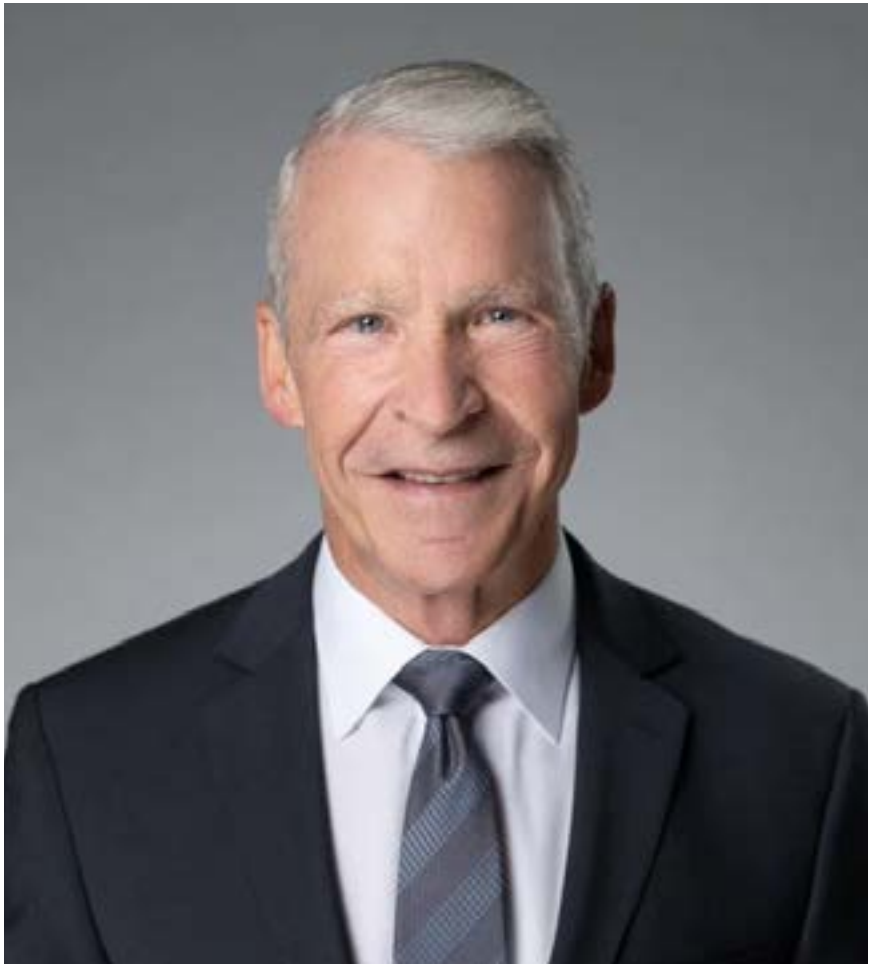

Two hundred and fifty years from now, none of us will be here, but the values we strengthen today can shape the world others inherit tomorrow. Thank you for joining Stetson in asking one of the most important questions we can consider together:

What values will shape the next 250 years?

OUR KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Dr. Joel C. Hunter

Pastor of Community Benefit, Action Church
Chairman, Central Florida Pledge

Dr. Joel C. Hunter serves as Pastor of Community Benefit at Action Church, a multisite congregation based in Winter Park, Florida, and his one-minute daily devotionals are broadcast worldwide on Z88 radio. He also chairs the Central Florida Pledge, an initiative that encourages residents to treat one another with dignity and respect, even amid disagreement, and to stand with any group facing discrimination because of who they are or what they believe. He is the author of The Pledge Approach to Faith & Politics, a free field guide to engaging the intersection of faith and public life with civility, wisdom, and respect, available at centralfloridapledge.com/book.

Dr. Hunter's entry into ministry and public life grew out of his work in the 1960s Civil Rights movement. For 32 years, he served as senior pastor of Northland Church, which grew to a congregation of approximately 20,000. He then spent five years bringing churches and charitable organizations together to serve some of Central Florida's most vulnerable residents, earning recognition as Orlando magazine's No. 1 most powerful voice for philanthropy and six selections among "Orlando's 50 Most Powerful." A nationally recognized advocate for people experiencing poverty and marginalization, he has chaired Central Florida's Commission on Homelessness and helped support President George W. Bush's establishment of the White House Office of Faith-Based and Community Initiatives.

Dr. Hunter also served as a spiritual advisor to President Barack Obama, praying with him often and writing weekly devotions for him throughout both terms. In June 2026, he co-led the invocation at the grand opening of the Obama Presidential Center in Chicago. Internationally, he has held leadership roles in the World Evangelical Alliance, representing more than 600 million evangelicals, and nationally in the National Association of Evangelicals, representing more than 40 denominations. He approaches today's most challenging issues with a pastoral heart shaped by decades at the intersection of faith, community, and public life.

Dr. Hunter and his wife, Becky, have been married since 1972, and she is his partner in both life and ministry. They have three sons, seven grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

FEATURED PROGRAM

Stetson R.E.A.D.

Reflect, Engage and Affirm Diversity

Welcome Center Lynn Presentation Room, 10:30–11:45 a.m.

Read, Eat, and Discuss!

Come celebrate the power of stories to connect, inspire, and transform!

Join us for an exciting Stetson Values Day launch of the 2026–2027 R.E.A.D. Program! Together, we'll celebrate the joy of reading, creative expression, thoughtful reflection, and meaningful conversation — all in the spirit of deepening Stetson's core values and cultivating beloved community.

We're delighted to announce our first book selection: "Nothing to Fear" by Dr. Barry C. Black, Chaplain of the United States Senate. And now, for the moment we've all been waiting for... drumroll, please! We'll also unveil our additional R.E.A.D. book selections for the year; stories that honor our shared humanity, spark curiosity, and invite us to learn and grow together.

The celebration will feature a reflective arts activity, opportunities for community connection, and a look back at R.E.A.D.'s history and impact as we celebrate more than a decade of growth, inspiration, and belonging and honor this signature Stetson program and cherished Values Day tradition.

Founded and directed by Dr. Rajni Shankar-Brown, R.E.A.D. is hosted by Stetson's Institute for Catalyzing Equity, Justice, and Social Change (I-CEJSC), with support from the Center for Cultural, Civic & Community Engagement; the Brown Center for Faculty Innovation and Excellence; the College of Arts and Sciences; and the duPont-Ball Library. For over a decade, R.E.A.D. has elevated diverse voices, fostered meaningful dialogue, encouraged critical reflection, and enriched our campus-community.

Everyone is welcome! Students, faculty, staff, alumni, and community partners are invited to join us — whether you're a longtime R.E.A.D. participant or discovering the program for the first time.

Because R.E.A.D. is about more than books. It's about honoring our shared humanity, exploring diverse perspectives, deepening understanding, and building a community where everyone belongs.

We can't wait to READ with you!

12 – 2 p.m. | Values Day Marketplace Celebration

Palm Court

Celebrate creativity, entrepreneurship, and community at the Values Day Marketplace! Browse original art, handmade goods, and creative services from Stetson students, faculty, staff, and community members, with music, lawn games, a photo booth, and a frozen treat. As we reflect on the values that will shape the next 250 years, come support local creators and make meaningful connections. Grab a bite at the free Community Lunch, then stroll over.

12 – 2 p.m. | Community Lunch

Lynn Dining Commons

Join us for a delicious celebration of American traditions, community, and connection! Enjoy a festive lunch featuring classic American favorites as we celebrate 250 years of history, culture, and the diverse traditions that bring us together. Lunch is free for students, faculty, staff, and community members without a meal plan. While you enjoy your meal, explore the conversation prompts at each table and share your thoughts on the values that will shape America's next 250 years. Great food, meaningful conversations, and a celebration of community await!

2 – 4 p.m. | Interactive Deliberative Dialogue

CUB Stetson Room
(2 Hour Session)

The USA In This Generation:
A Deliberative Dialogue About Our Nation's Future

What would you prioritize if you were responsible for shaping America's future? In this deliberative dialogue, you'll step into the role of a policymaker and explore three approaches: strengthening democracy, expanding economic opportunity, and building stronger communities. You'll weigh real-world benefits and tradeoffs before deciding which policies you would pass. Finally, you'll identify one practical action you can take to strengthen the country's future.

4:15 - 5:30 p.m. | Concurrent Sessions #2

Two separate 35-minute presentations in one room, scheduled consecutively.

The Place of America's Values: Reflections on the Civil Rights Travel Course

-AND-

The CVSR Minor: An Opportunity to Put Values into Action

CUB Stetson Room

Presenter(s): Dr. Jeremy Posadas and Civil Rights Travel Course student presenters (combined session)

Reflect on lessons from the Civil Rights Travel Course and explore how the Civic & Social Responsibility Minor connects academic learning with civic action. Both presentations consider justice, public values, and responsibility for the future.

Two separate 35-minute presentations in one room, scheduled consecutively.

Who Gets to Lead? Women, Power, and the Next 250 Years

4:15 - 4:50 p.m. in Brown 140

Presenter(s): Dr. Meg Young and Students from Women in Business First-Year Seminar

Examine who has had access to leadership and power, with particular attention to women. Interactive discussion considers equity, representation, and opportunities for the next 250 years.

First Does Not Mean Alone: Building a Legacy for the Next 250 Years

4:55 - 5:30 p.m. in Brown 140

Presenter(s): Dr. Meg Young, President Mia Woollens and Members of Alpha Alpha Alpha (Tri-Alpha) First-Generation Honor Society, Stetson University

Celebrate first-generation students and the communities that support them. Participants consider how access, belonging, and mentorship can build a lasting legacy.

Are You Smarter Than a Sexpert?

Brown 139

Presenter(s): Isabel LaFleur and Grace Smith, The WELL Team

Test knowledge and challenge misconceptions through interactive sexual-health trivia. The session encourages informed choices, respect, and access to accurate information.

Faith and Politics

Brown 234

Presenter(s): Derrick Doh (group presentation), Student Organizer, Ginsburg Phoenix Fellows

Explore the relationship between faith, politics, and public values through a panel discussion. Participants consider respectful dialogue and pluralism in a changing society.

The Sustainable Wardrobe: Conscious Clothing Choices in a Fast Fashion World

Rinker Environmental Learning Center (RELC)

Presenter(s): Cheryl Orr, Theatre Arts

Examine the environmental and social costs of fast fashion and consider more sustainable clothing choices. Participants explore consumption and responsibility for future generations.

Calm in the Storm: Growth, Dignity, and Resilience in Uncertain Times

Elizabeth 315

Presenter(s): Juli Gamba, Student Counseling Services

Reflect on resilience, dignity, and personal growth during uncertain times. The session invites participants to consider the values that help individuals and communities navigate change.

Remembering Innsbruck through the Soul of Stetson

Lynn Business Center 108 Rinker Auditorium

Presenter(s): Dr. Mercedes Tichenor, Dr. John Tichenor, Stetson Innsbruck Society

Reflect on the Innsbruck experience and its place in Stetson's history. The session considers how shared experiences, learning, and institutional values shape community.

Technology, Our Values, and the Future We Create
LBC 122

Presenter(s): Kayla Davis, Victoria Antwi, Jennifer Corbin, Kellie Pait, Tinghan Xuxia

Explore how technology reflects human choices and shapes our collective future. Collaborative activities encourage thoughtful consideration of responsibility, ethics, and progress.

Deepening Connection: From Conversation to Community
Cross-Cultural Center

Presenter(s): Alexandria Belk and Dr. Rajni Shankar-Brown

Move from conversation to meaningful community connection through facilitated activities and reflection. The session emphasizes belonging, mutual understanding, and shared responsibility.

Two separate 35-minute presentations in one room, scheduled consecutively.

Strength Over Shortcuts: What Values Should Shape the Future of Health?
4:15 - 4:50 p.m. in LBC 220

Presenter(s): Julie Kaidor

Consider the choices and values that support long-term health rather than quick fixes. The session connects personal well-being with responsibility and resilience.

4T's (Time, Talent, Treasure, Ties)
4:55 - 5:30 p.m. in LBC 220

Presenter(s): Nicole McCann (group presentation)

Consider how giving time, talent, treasure, and ties can strengthen communities. Participants explore service and philanthropy as values that can guide future generations.

5:30 – 9 p.m. Evening Programming

Values through Film
5:30 - 7:30 p.m. | Cross-Cultural Center (109) and Hillel House

Close out the afternoon with Values Through Film, an opportunity to experience storytelling through cinema and reflect on the values that connect us. These screenings invite our campus and community to consider different perspectives, explore meaningful questions, and continue the conversations inspired by Values Day.

Values through Voice: Uncouth Hour
7:30 - 9 p.m. | Libby Lawn

A Stetson tradition since 1997, Uncouth Hour is the university's student-run open mic night, hosted by Touchstone and Hatter Network. For Values Day, students take the stage with comedy, poetry, music, dance, and other performance art that speaks to this year's theme, What values will shape the next 250 years? Performers sign up at the event, and everyone is welcome to come cheer them on. Snacks will be provided.

Cultural Credits

Students can earn up to six Cultural Credits by participating in Values Day programs. The following programs have each been approved for Cultural Credit and have been noted throughout the program with the Cultural Credit icon:

Acknowledgements

Planning Values Day is a significant undertaking. The Values Day Planning Committee wishes to thank the following offices for their tremendous support in making the day successful:

- University Events & Conference Services
- University Marketing
- Cultural, Civic & Community Engagement
- Cross-Cultural Center
- Center for Dialogue and Civic Action
- WORLD: The David and Leighan Rinker Center for International Learning
- The School of Business Administration
- The School of Music
- The College of Arts and Sciences
- The College of Law
- The Office of the Provost
- The Office of the President
- Facilities Management
- Public Safety
- Brown Center for Faculty Innovation and Excellence
- Chartwells / Dining Services
- Web Services
- Student Development and Campus Vibrancy (SDCV)

Further, this day would not be successful without the many talented and thoughtful members of our community who proposed workshops and programs, which are often the engines of innovation that challenge us to think about and act upon our values in new ways.

Finally, we owe a debt to our eighth president, Dr. H. Douglas Lee, for both his vision of a university grounded deeply in values, and his courage to turn those values into action through initiatives across the university and our surrounding communities. Indeed, that vision and courage could be found, too, in Doug's personal mission and motto: the old Quaker saying, "Let your life speak". May we continue to honor his legacy by making Stetson a place where learning and values meet.
